Dear Mona Thuillard

I am sending you this request confirming our telephone conversation. I represent the Miskitu Nation in exile. In my call to you I stated the fact that I was unable to get help from the Nicaragua Red Cross. I then contacted The US Navy relief fund for some help. The Red Cross told the Navy that the Nicaraguan government would have to put in the request to the local - Red Cross and that order was never put in. Daniel Ortega is not helping the Miskitu people because they will not vote in his November Elections. According to the Nicaraguan government they do not recognize The Miskitu people because we don't recognize them so they don't feel a need to help. It is at this point that I contacted Geneva.

The aftermath of the hurricane/Wave Chantal that hit Prinzapolka Rio Coco area beside Belize and Waspan areas has been devastating to this area. Thousands of people are sick, dehydrated, injured, and starving. The Nicaraguan government has remained silent. They have not sent help since this natural disaster occurred nearly a month. Over thirty thousand people are affected in some capacity by this natural disaster. Because of the urgency of the people in Bilwi Puerto Cabezas Nicaragua to their governor Carlos Aleman, the regional government sent one hundred gallons of water and two hundred gallons of diesel fuel. This does not address the needs of the people completely. More must be done soon. They need larger amounts of fresh water, food and medical supplies. We as an organization are doing all that we can to gather donations of food and medical supplies but we have no means of shipping anything due to the high cost. We are requesting any help and/or shipping methods that you can provide to deliver these basic necessities to the people who so desperately need them. They need immediate help. We are asking you because it is our belief that Mr. Ortega is withholding relief so that the people will die. That would make it easier for his Colonos (aka Sandinista) to move in on their land and its resources. Please help us provide aid.
